

Eliza Jane Reilly is the Director of the Center for Liberal Arts and Society at Franklin & Marshall College, where she also teaches in the American Studies program. Previously she was director of programs in the Office of Science, Health, and Student Engagement at AAC&U, working on the SENCER and PHHE programs. From 1998 to 2003 she also served as the executive director of the American Conference of Academic Deans, a national organization of chief academic officers and other academic administrators committed to improving undergraduate liberal education.

Eliza received an MA in art history and a PhD in American history from Rutgers University and is a Senior Associate with the SENCER project. For SENCER, Eliza is the general editor and coordinator of the SENCER Models series.